

The goal of this test is to check that automatic add of crop-lines works anywhere in the DOM tree. A first implementation were only working for elements that were direct children of the '.page' element.

